away. William Plomer - "Wild doves at Louis Trichardt" This is a deeply descriptive poem set in the heat of summer somewhere near Louis Trichardt. The poet dwells on the intense midday heat which causes all human activity to grind to a standstill. Nearby, however, he hears the gentle cooing of a flock of wild doves, their sound bubbling forth as a cool cascade of pleasure to the ears. William Plomer - "Wild doves at Louis Trichardt" 22. The wild doves now begin to coo. 23. The dove's heads are described as 'neat', suggesting that they are well groomed, composed and dignified, and 'silk', which is fine soft and precious material. This contrasts with man's tiredness and sweaty, uncomfortable state. The wild doves at Louis Trichardt - english on wheels blog Matt Draper's matric English
